- Do you have experience of developing an SQA accredited training centre or working with a training organisation that delivered Get Ready for Work and Training for Work programmes?
- Do you have experience and qualifications as an SQA assessor?
- Do you have skills and knowledge of a particular subject that you could share with young people to help them grow and mature into sustainable work?
- Do you have a passion for food, skills/qualifications in cooking either as a chef cooking tutor or have you worked in the catering world?

If so would you like to work with our small and dedicated team of volunteers to establish a training centre in West Lothian that will deliver training programmes for the most disadvantaged young people in West Lothian?

The Larder is a new and exciting voluntary organisation working in West Lothian to help the most marginalised and disadvantaged young people in our communities to change their lives. We are a team of 8 people who all volunteer our time to make this project happen.

We are looking for volunteers that can support the establishment of an SQA accredited centre, deliver training to challenging young people, help to deliver cookery classes, work as part of a team or on their own initiative, contribute creative ideas on how we can make a difference and change the lives of these young people.

Why not contact us to find out more, come along and meet the team.
